ABOUT THE GLOBAL PEOPLE'S ASSEMBLY

The Global People's Assembly 2023 will take place in a hybrid format, both online and in person from 17-18 September at the UN Church Center in New York. In this programme you will find event descriptions for everything happening over the two days including room locations. If you are joining us online we will send the zoom links in the coming weeks.

PLEASE NOTE we have three sessions running at the same time in a lot of cases.

To make the Global People's Assembly as inclusive as possible, we have made these Zoom calls open to all. However, in order to foster a digital safe space we kindly ask the following:

Please be respectful of others when they are speaking and allow everyone to speak their truth.

Please remember to keep your mic muted and your camera off unless you have raised your hand and are called upon to speak. This will help to minimise any background noise.

We have independent moderators at each session who will be ensuring that the Global People's Assembly runs smoothly and remains respectful and safe for all. If you experience any technical difficulties during a session, please message the moderators by using the chat function.

Translation into French and Spanish has been arranged for most sessions, so please check under each event to see if there will be translation.

If you are attending in person and want translation, you must bring your phone and earphones and dial into zoom.

Time Zones

The times in this programme are shown in UTC and EDT. To check what time the event will take place in your country, you can click here to use this time zone tool.

How to use the tool:

- Type in your country/time zone in the add locations bar
- Set the UTC or EDT time to the time of the event you want to attend

Building Inclusive, Greener, Fair Futures: Voices of Children for SDGs

Online Session

Organisers:
Save the Children

Welcome to a dynamic virtual gathering where children, including those who are participating in National People's Assemblies worldwide, come together to discuss pressing issues and craft a united message for world leaders to act for positive change. This interactive session aims to create a safe, inclusive and meaningful space for children to share their insights, learn from each other, bridge perspectives, and create impactful messages that resonate across the globe for the SDGs.

10.15 - 11.00

Work on Declaration

On the occasion of the SDG Summit and during the Global People's Assembly it is important to take stock of the conditions civil society is confronting around the world. During the session on Civic Space and Human Rights we will reflect on recent trends on civic space and what they mean for the Agenda 2030 and the achievement of the SDGs. The session will be informed by global analysis and country level experiences, with a view to generating forward-looking ideas and messages for the Global People's Assembly to consider in its advocacies to the SDG Summit and beyond.

The reform of the International Financial Architecture (IFA) has been at the core of contemporary policy debates and features as one the most contentious issue in intergovernmental negotiations. Support for fundamental change comes from the vast majority of UN Member States from the Global South, with special emphasis on systemic reforms to democratise economic governance and shift decision make away from the power grip of developed countries and the institutions they command. However, a small number of economically powerful member states continue to undermine, if not obstruct, reform processes under the umbrella of the UN.

In this session, we want to shed light on the power dynamics in relevant IFA reform processes taking part in- and outside the UN. On tax architecture reform, the Global South, under the leadership of the Africa Group, is seeking to re-affirm the UN norm-setting role in tax policymaking against the capture of the OECD, following the adoption of UNGA Resolution 77/244 last year. On debt architecture reform, there are similar attempts to re-launch/re-establish UN-centred processes against a very crowded field where ric country-controlled institutions, such as G20 and IMF, tend to call the shots. On the international public finance architecture, there is the issue of scaling up international public financing to advance the developmental agenda to meet SDGs and climate imperatives. This which possibly requires the implementation of ODA commitments to fulfil and exceed the 0.7% target in the form of unconditional grants as well as delivering more than USD 6.5 trillion in ODA debt that Global North countries have failed to deliver between 1970 and 2021. In addition, intergovernmental agreements are needed to ensure on a better and more efficient use of the multilateral development banking system, away from the current promotion of a private-finance first approach to development.

The session's objective is to briefly present the current state of affairs, but mainly to expose and discuss civil society engagement strategies in relevant UN spaces, the key upcoming meetings being the immediate SDG Summit and the High-Level Dialogue on Financing for Development, and, most importantly, the process leading to the Fourth International Conference on Financing for Development (FfD4).

Linkages of pushback, linkages of resistance: gender, climate, migration & democracy

Organisers:

Women's Major Group

The session seeks to explore the intricate interconnections between four critical dimensions of global societal dynamics: gender, climate change, migration, and democracy. In recent years, these domains have emerged as key focal points in academic, policy, and advocacy discourses, reflecting their profound impact on the lives of individuals and communities worldwide. Despite their apparent differences, there exists a noteworthy intersection between these movements, characterized by shared narratives, tactics, and implications. The complex interplay among these dimensions has given rise to a range of challenges and opportunities that warrant in-depth examination.

We aim to explore the intricate connections between antigender, climate denialist, and antidemocracy organizing, shedding light on how these seemingly distinct movements often intersect and reinforce one another, including in the lives of women, girls and gender diverse people on the ground - such as the conditions of rural women in the nexus of all these issues. Recognizing these linkages is crucial for understanding the broader social, political, and cultural forces that shape contemporary society.

The session will further work to enhance the linkages of resistance, by hearing from groups that work on specific opposition forces, as well as on the interconnections of these issues, and will look into how our movements can work together and link to each other for stronger resistance to these growing reactionary forces.

Organisers:

ADA, Forus, Janic, TAP, GCAP, ADN, APSD

Since the adoption of the 2030 Agenda in 2015, progress towards SDG16+ has been slow and uneven – and in many cases backsliding. On top of this, global trends and forces continue to work against peaceful, just and inclusive societies, with political will from governments fading and exclusion on the rise. This second SDG16+ Forum represents an opportunity for CSOs to come together to identify areas where amplified actions are needed on SDG16+.

In this context, the 2022 editions of the SDG 16+ Forum Asia and the Rome Civil Society Declaration on SDG16+ 2023 will be reviewed in terms of our commitment and relevance to the changing context to advocate for deeper implementation and accountability of SDG16+ from the governments and inter-governmental organizations as well as civil society.

2023 is a turning point in the 15 year journey of the 2030 Agenda (2016-2030) and CSOs are challenged to mobilise to revitalize the momentum to accelerate the effective implementation of the SDGs to tackle the ongoing, even worsening global crisis such as inequality, climate, food and energy crisis. The outcome document of the 3rd SDG 16+ Asia Forum will be formulated based on the deliberations during the Forum and will be used as our common guide for collective actions for 2023 and 24, specially the SDGs Summit in 2023, summits of the Summit of the Future in 2024 , and review of SDG 1 (no poverty), SDG 2 (zero hunger), SDG 13 (climate action), SDG 16 (peace, justice and strong institutions), and SDG 17 (partnerships for the Goals) (SDG 16+) in 2024.

This session on Peace and Conflicts will provide participants with an opportunity to discuss key challenges facing the international community around peace and security, and will explore important opportunities for engagement and influence in follow-up from the SDG Summit. Issue experts from the global and national levels will provide a primer on a wide range of advocacy and programmatic work for civil society to collectively build upon, and provide a space for learning and dialogue. The session will also provide a space for sharing of ideas around individual and collective mobilization and actions for the “Global Day of Action for SDG16+” scheduled for the International Day of Peace (September 21st).

Feminist Economy

11th Floor Harding Room

Click here for zoom link

Translation into French and Spanish

Organisers:

Women's Major Group and Civil Society FfD

Mechanism

The concept of a "Feminist Economy" emerges from the intersection of economics and feminist theory, challenging traditional economic paradigms that often overlook or undervalue the contributions and experiences of women and other marginalized groups. Rooted in the belief that economic systems should prioritize gender equality, social justice, and inclusive growth, feminist economics seek to reshape the way economies are structured, policies are formulated, and resources are distributed.

The objective of the session is to foster a deep understanding of the key principles and transformative potential of a feminist economic framework. Participants will engage in insightful discussions, critical analyses, and knowledge-sharing to: analyze structural inequalities, highlight case studies, and envision future pathways. This will also include linkages to the SDG Mobilization session organized by the WMG, with the support of allies on the need for a gender transformative reform of the international financial architecture. By the end of the session, participants will gain a comprehensive understanding of how a feminist economy challenges existing economic paradigms and offers a transformative vision for societies that prioritizes gender equality, social justice, and the well-being of all.

The event will follow the format of a fishbowl conversation. The identified speakers will be sitting in a circle, with the other participants listening in on the periphery. The conversation will be initiated by the moderator with some guiding questions, to which the participants reply as they feel the urge to. In the last 45 minutes of the session, the fishbowl will become more flexible, with some speakers (if they feel that they have said enough) leaving the circle and other participants filling that seat to continue answering the questions. The initial round of speakers will need to be present in person at the meeting, and contributions can be made online for the second half of the session.

11.00 - 12.30

Global Democracy and the UN

11th Floor Harding Room

Organisers:

TAP Network, Democracy Without Borders, C4UN, The Millennials Movement

The session continues a process of reflection and mobilization on civil society proposals aimed at improving citizens' participation and representation at the UN. It builds on the Global Futures Forum held in March 2023 in New York and online which resulted in the Interim People's Pact for the Future, in particular the forum's "UN and Global Governance innovation" track. Proposals from this track that will be highlighted are the establishment of a UN World Citizens' Initiative (UNWCI), a UN Parliamentary Assembly (UNPA), and a UN High-Level Civil Society Envoy (UNCSE). These three proposals were included in the Interim People's Pact.

The session in addition builds on the "We The Peoples" campaign for inclusive global governance launched in April 2021 that promotes these three proposals and which has been endorsed by +200 civil society networks, alliances and organizations. A UNPA and UNWCI have also been endorsed by the declarations previously endorsed by the Global People's Assembly and thus are of particular interest.

Given a global trend of rising authoritarianism, democratic backsliding and shrinking civic space, the session will also address the proposal of establishing a UN Special Rapporteur on Democracy (UNRod) in order to strengthen the UN's role in advancing democracy.

The session's purpose is to make participants think and interact on the question of how the four proposals relate to their own causes and work as activists and/or representatives of civil society organizations. The ideal and desired outcome is for them to integrate advocacy of the four proposals or those they find most relevant into their work and for them to identify ways of how they can take action in support of them.

- Introduction to the session's theme and proceedings (Rita Kakati Shah, Democracy Without Borders and UMA)
- Overview of proposals and context
- UN World Citizens' Initiative, UN Parliamentary Assembly, UN Special Rapporteur on Democracy (Nudhara Yusuf, Global Governance Innovation Network and Stimson Center)
- UN Civil Society Envoy (Mandeep Tiwana, CIVICUS)
- Context of the session: Global Futures Forum, the Summit of the Future & SDG 16 (Jeffery Huffines, C4UN)
